

Dr. Colvin operated on my mother's one week prior to the Thanksgiving holiday. Because of Dr. Colvin's inventive minimally invasive heart surgery my mother is still alive today. The first time my family and I met Dr. Covin, we did not feel positive of what my mother would have to go through because of her old age, but after consulting with him we felt assured that she was in the best hands possible and felt positive. The recovery was a full success and I am happy to say that my mother is back now to her normal life with a healed heart. I am very saddened to her about the passing of a man who gave life back to so many others. My deepest heartfelt condolences go out to his family, and I will never forget what he did for mine. May he rest in peace.

Sincerely,

Jeremy De Gasperi, son of Rosalind De Gasperi operated on November 15th 2007
